

“The fit with the carpenters union for us is the quality of the work. And they help us hold schedule, which means also holding budget.”

Peter Palandjian, Chairman and CEO
Intercontinental Real Estate Corp., Boston, MA

It's no coincidence that contractors often see their business thrive after partnering with the carpenters union. There are many reasons why, but chief among them is that the union understands contractors' business goals, challenges and needs. We're sensitive to budgets, schedules, quality, resources, and overall value. And we know that the more successful we make our contractors, the more successful we can make ourselves.
